

MARSHALL CONSTRUCTION – COVID 19 UPDATE

We are all navigating uncharted waters as business and society faces up to the impact of COVID-19. We at Marshalls very much hope you and your loved ones remain in good health.

At Marshall Construction, the health, safety and wellbeing of every client and employee is our priority. Throughout this coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic, we have diligently taken on board Government Guidance and practical steps to enable us to implement robust measures in preparation for our return to work.

Marshall Construction will continue to work with our clients to manage COVID-19 related issues. This complex and rapidly changing situation means we must work even more closely than ever before to navigate through this crisis and beyond.

As the UK learns more about the virus, there are now measures and methods to dramatically reduce the likelihood of being exposed to COVID-19. During this lockdown period we have put together robust working practices which are aligned with the Site Operating Procedures (SOP) issued by the Construction Leadership Council.

When current UK and Scottish Government restrictions ease, we envisage necessary changes in working practices and ongoing social distancing measures will unfortunately adversely affect site production, programme which will inevitably incur additional cost. We will endeavour to seek working solutions that will keep these costs and disruption to a minimum. In the meantime, our sites remain closed, but we continue to monitor the evolving situation and plan for an orderly return to site when the situation allows.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank all our clients for the flexibility and resilience they have shown during these challenging times.

Thank you for your patience and understanding,

Yours sincerely

For MARSHALL CONSTRUCTION LIMITED

B McDermott

Managing Director